Opened in October 2007, the Dr. Bobbie Bailey & Family Performance Center is the primary performance venue for the Kennesaw State University School of Music.

Morgan Concert Hall is a single-level, 624-seat concert hall located within the Bailey Performance Center. Morgan Hall boasts a superior live audio reinforcement system as well as a state-of-the-art digital multi-track recording system allowing for high-quality recordings. Adjustable acoustic curtains located on both the main and mezzanine levels of the hall encircle the space and allow the room to be optimally configured for a wide variety of events and musical presentations. The seating area offers great views from every seat and features several distinct seating sections allowing for flexibility in ticketing.

Also located within the Bailey Performance Center is a 3,600-square-foot rehearsal hall accessible from both the lobby or the back-of-house areas of Morgan Hall. This space is sonically isolated from the performance hall but integrated with the facility's audio recording and communications infrastructure allowing production tasks and capabilities to be extended to this space for a variety of uses. The rehearsal hall is equipped with tiered, seated risers which accommodate up to 60 individuals.
